FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

American Folk Dance Ensemble

Provo, Utah, 2026 – Representing the culture and traditions of American folk music, BYU American Folk Dance Ensemble keeps busy year-round with performances, workshops, and travel. Often accompanied by the BYU Mountain Strings, the ensemble aims to share a piece of American culture, as well as learn about the cultures of the audiences and other ensembles they perform with.

At each American Folk Dance performance, whether on BYU campus, at a Scandinavian festival, or a regional concert, viewers can expect authentic costumes, traditional choreography, and high-level technique. It is truly a spectacle for all ages.

BYU International Folk Dance Ensemble

The American Folk Dance Ensemble is BYU’s premier folk dance performing group, presenting dances and music from American folk tradition. Featuring authentic costumes, music, and choreography, the ensemble celebrates the heritage of the United States, as well as its influencing cultures. Since 1964, the group has represented Brigham Young University and the United States at festivals and performances throughout the world. Through international touring, performances across the United States and Canada, and cultural exchange, the ensemble seeks to foster greater appreciation and understanding among diverse cultures.

BYU Performing Arts Management
