

Synthesis

BYU

The Group

Synthesis combines swing, blues, jazz, Latin, and fusion styles into a dynamic, unforgettable musical experience. Comprised of some of Brigham Young University's most talented and versatile musicians, Synthesis features performers who also contribute as composers and arrangers. With a traditional big band lineup including saxophones, trombones, trumpets, and a full rhythm section of drums, bass, guitar, and piano, BYU Synthesis continues to captivate audiences globally with their vibrant and polished sound.

Honors

- In 2024, the group toured in Western Europe, where they performed in festivals, as well as participated in clinics with local high school musicians.
- In 2022, jazz legend Wynton Marsalis personally invited the group to perform at the prestigious Jack Rudin Jazz Championship, where they earned accolades for Best Trombone Section, Best Trumpet Section, and multiple Outstanding Soloist awards across the ensemble.
- In 2016, the group toured in the Baltic States, covering Estonia, Latvia Lithuania, Sweden and Finland. On tour, the group made history at the Saulkrasti Jazz Festival by playing multiple encores.

Outreach Efforts

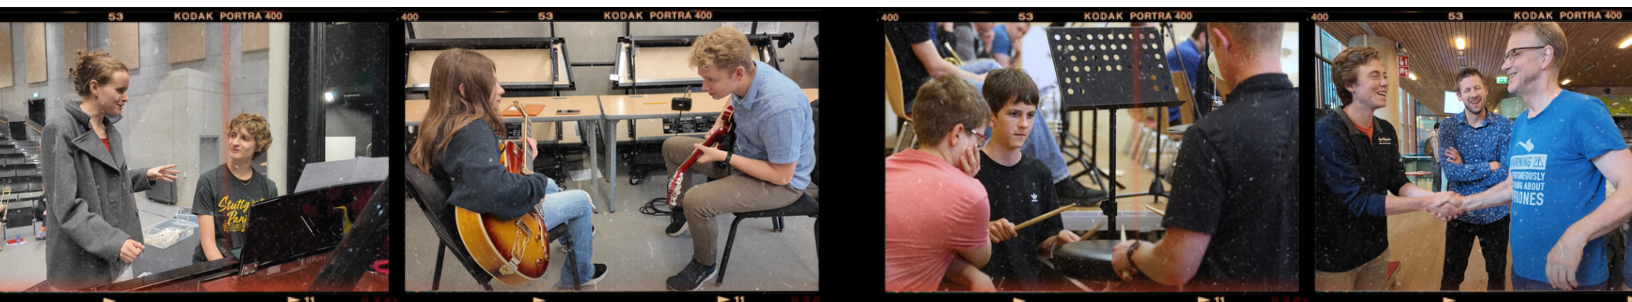

Synthesis builds bridges through workshops, school visits, community concerts, and international outreach. Its efforts include musicians conferences and campus events as well as performances at festivals, high school art departments.

As BYU's premier big band, Synthesis is equipped to:

- Teach jazz performance in schools, churches, and community centers
- Perform in festivals and competitions
- Participate in service-focused performances and outreach
- Collaborate with choirs, youth groups, and performing arts programs
- Perform full or adapted shows for various audiences and venues

The BYU Synthesis jazz band performed always in an outstanding and very professional way... All performances terminated with requests for an encore... We will always keep a sweet memory of these days that we spent together.
